They had hardly taken their seats when the compromise was arranged, and, much to their disappointment, they were turned out without being entertained with another exhibition of quarrelling statesmen, a release of entertainment that has been quite frequent of late.

DETAILS OF THE DEADLOCK.

How Reed Held Up the House for Five Hours.—Recesses, moments were absent. Washington, Nov. 2.—Soon after the House met to-day a resolution to adjourn to-morrow at 2 P. M. was reported by Mr. Catclings of Mississippi from the Committee on Rules, and the previous question was joyfully and vociferously ordered. A lively debate followed, in which Representative Terry of Arkansas and Clark of Missouri, opposed any prolonged recess or adjournment.

Mr. Henderson (Iowa) asked Mr. Catclings if there was any chance of the Tariff bill being reported from the Committee on Ways and Means if the House remained in session. Mr. Catclings replied that there was not the slightest chance.

Mr. Henderson said that being so he was decidedly in favor of adjournment.

Mr. Holman (Dem., Ind.) argued earnestly in favor of a recess instead of an adjournment. He questioned the point of adjournment, and the Committee on Ways and Means Committee to sit after adjournment, and held that a recess was in every way preferable.

Mr. Outwater (Dem., O.) inquired if the gentleman had considered the economical aspect of the case, and Mr. Holman's reply in the affirmative led Mr. Outwater to exclaim that the gentleman was afraid the members would get their mileage in the event of adjournment.

The yeas and nays on the adjournment resolution was called for, and resulted in its passage by a vote of 134 to 100.

The chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means (Mr. Wilson) asked that the committee be allowed to sit during the adjournment.

Mr. Reed (Rep., Mo.) objected that the committee should not sit when it could not submit its report to the House. He said the House should have control of its committees, except, perhaps, he added quizzically, the Committee on Rules.

Mr. Reed's objections sufficed to send it to the Committee on Rules.

Mr. Fitch (Dem., N. Y.) called up the World's Fair Prize Exhibit bill, which has been referred to the Committee on Ways and Means. Mr. Kilgore (Dem., Tex.) objected to its consideration, but withdrew his objection when assured by Mr. Fitch that the bill was similar to the bill authorizing the Winter Exposition at San Francisco. With this understanding Mr. Kilgore yielded, and the bill was passed.

Mr. Bates (Dem., Ala.) asked that when next the House should go into Committee on the Whole for consideration of the Bankruptcy bill debate should be limited to three hours; but Mr. Kilgore refused to agree to this.

At this point Mr. Catclings reported back from the Committee on Rules the resolution authorizing the Committee on Ways and Means to sit during the adjournment of Congress for the preparation of a tariff measure, and to report the same. This gave the House a foretaste of the tariff bill which was expected.

Mr. Reed (Rep., Mo.) said that it was an extraordinary proposition that the Committee on Ways and Means should sit during the interval between now and the assembling of the House, and during that interval the results and its reports should be made known to the House. The Committee on Ways and Means had been appointed for nearly three months; yet it had not had a single meeting on the Tariff bill. If this thing went on, as seemed to be likely, the Committee on Ways and Means would have absolutely nothing to report to the House.

Mr. Wilson (Dem., Va.) asked the gentleman whether he would consent that one of the objects sought to be accomplished by the adjournment of the House was to give to the country as early as possible the complete information as to the proposed tariff legislation of this country, and that was not either suitable or proper.

THE MONETARY CONFERENCE.
It Will Not Resemble Except at the Request of the United States.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—It is said at the State Department that the International Monetary Conference, which met in Brussels last winter, will not resume its sessions. When the Conference came together in May, after a recess, an adjournment was taken until November, at the suggestion of the delegates from the United States. No particular date was agreed upon for reconvening, and as the conference was called at the suggestion of the United States, its deliberations can probably be resumed only at the request of this Government.

As far as can be ascertained Secretaries (Gresham and Carter) are at present no intention of making this request.

After the adjournment in May, Senators Allison, Jones and McClellan, and Mr. Cressy, the American delegates, tendered their resignations to the President. He did not accept them, but asked that they be allowed to remain until the President should see fit to reappoint them. Mr. Cressy has recently received an official letter from the President, informing him that his resignation was accepted, and that he was to be reappointed as a delegate to the conference.

Mr. Cressy, however, has declined the offer, and has written to the President, stating that he would not accept the position. He has also written to the Secretary of State, stating that he would not accept the position.

DIRECTUM WITHOUT A PEER.
The KING OFFICERS GORE DOWN BEFORE THE TROTTER WHIRLWIND.

Massey, the Champion Steeplechaser, No Match for Director's Game and Speedy Son—The Fastest Mare Was 2:07.2, but the Stallion Had Speed to Spare—Forecast of a Match Between the Pacers—Massey and Flying Jib—Pacers—Lawson's Trotter's Tremendous Trotting Record.

Directum, the unbeaten champion of 1893 among harness racers, added to his laurels yesterday afternoon at Fleetwood Park by defeating the pacer Massey, who has held the world's race record of 2:04 for more than a year. The mile in 2:08.4, which Massey showed in his work last Saturday, seemed to warrant the prediction that at least one of the hosts in a battle between the trotter and the pacer would be close to the world's record. But the crack steeplechaser from Buffalo was not up to his best form, and he was totally unable to give the magnificent black colt from California the sort of a contest that had been so generally expected. In fact, it was a one-sided affair, and in no wise worthy of the splendid patronage it attracted.

Old Fleetwood must have broken its record in the matter of attendance, for the crowd that made its way to the grounds occupied more of the space along the hillside than any seen during the season.

Time of races, 2:18.4, the first quarter in 54.4 seconds, half in 1:07.4, and three-quarters in 1:54.4. Mr. Massey brought out the pacer to trot, and was a mile dash against the pacer Massey. Both teams made numerous mistakes. Although Col. Walker and Volney Dinslow, Jr., lent a helping hand, the judges declared it to be a dead heat, a bit of pleasant sarcasm on the untidy work of the trotters handled by the two amateurs.
